FRIDAY MORNING ......FEB t, 1861. Great Fire! Loss, $30.000!

Last night, about haif. past eleven o'clock, a fire was discovered by a couple of late pedestrains, upon Main, between Second and Third streets. They immediately gove the clarm, and, during the necessary brief delay prior to the arrival of the engines, a few persons arrived, and leboring under the impression that the fire was in the store of C. Duval & Co , dry goods, kicked open the door. A brief examination disclosed that they were mistaken. By this time several police officers had arrived, and all present thought that the fire was in D. P. Faulds & Co.'s music store, adjuining. The doors of this establishment were then forced, when i was disclosed that the fire raged next door east, in the paper hanging and picture store of U. B. Evaris, sl.hough the fire had extended to the roof of the back part of Mr. Faulds' store.

The steam engines soon arrived and began work, and within an hour the flame were entirely quenched; not, however, without luflicting losses and damages to fully $30,000. The stock of Mr. Evarts paper hangings and pictures, the balance being glass and glit moldings. By the judgment of the Court below, the set in question was held to he in condict with the Constitution, in the following par-

1. In providing for the eppointment by Petitions and remonstrances were pre-cented by Mesers Grundy (a remonstrance), the Chanceller or Governor of the two members of the police board, instead of requiring them to be elected; Grover moved a reconsideration of the vote rejecting the bill for the benefit of

2. In not prescribing the terms for which those officers were to be elected; 3 to conferring upon them powers which are essentially executive, and other powers which are essentially judicial.

These several objections to the validity of the act, indicating, as they do, the only questions necessary to be considered in determining the propriety of the judgment sought to be revised, will be briefly noticed n the order in which they are stated. 1. Article 6, section 6, of the Constitu ion provides that '-Officers for cities and towns shall be elected for such terms and in nch manner as may be prescribed by law." The first inquiry, then, is to what class of officers do the officers created by the act in question belong? Are the two members of police board whom the Chancellor Governor is anthorized to appoint be considered as embraced by the class of officers designated in the provision just quoted as "off ers for cities and terms?" If so, it is perfectly plain that the Legislature had no power, under this imperative mandate of the fundamental law, to do more than to prescribe the manner in which they were to be elected, and the term of their

All civil officers for the Commonwealth at large shall reside within the State; and all district, county, or town officere, within their respective districts, counties or towns, (trustors of towns excepted), and shall keep their offices at such places therein, as may be required by law. (Sec. 11, art. 8)

This, and other provisions of the Consti-tution show with absolute certainty what particular offices were intended to be em-braced within each of the four classes here The members of the Police Board are, by the express terms of the act, required to reside in the city of Louisville, to be qualified therein. Their powers and duties relate to as le indicated by the title of the act, to ets pertaining to the "Police Depart Would it not, therefore, ment' of the city. be a ctriking and palpable abuse of terms to say that these officers were either State, ict or County others, within the meaning of the several constitutional ovisions referred to ! Regarding them, then, as belonging to the class of officers described in the sixth section of article sixth, the question is whether the requirements of that have not been disregarded in those provisions of the act under consideration which authorize the appointment of these by the Chancellor or Gov In other words is an appointment ernor : to an office by the Governor, the eame thing, in a constitutional sense, as an wa to an office. The council for the appellants have sought to maintain the affirmation of this proposition in an argument svinolag great research and ingenuity. They have endeavored to show, and as we might admit, have eucoseded in showing that among lexicographers and theo-legians the meaning of the word elect to choose, to take by preference, etc. and that there is nothing in its accepted meaning which necessarily eignifies a pop nlar election; and furthermore, that in the Constitution of the United States, and in the two former Constitutions of this State, the words, "cheese, selset, appoint and elect, were in some instances used interchangeably. But, as was well suggested in the opinion of the Circuit Judge, the question is not what is the primary or best definition of the term, nor in what sense it may have been peretofore need, but rather what did the Convention intend by the use of that term in the present Constitution. To curtail the power of appointment to office by the Executive, and to extend the elective principle, was one of the leading objects of the authors of the new Constitution. This purpose was not more distinctly manifested in the expressions of public seniiment, which led to the eail of the Convention, than it has been in the provisions of the Instrument of itself.

Almost all Judicial and Ministerial offices, as well as many of the Executive offices, had been previously filled by appointment. The great object of the change in the system was to refer to the people the choice of their efficers of all grades and classes, whether State, Dietrict, County, or City, or Town officers. That choice was to be made through the instrumentality of an election. Hence the words "elect" and "election" will be found to have been used by the framers of the present Constitution in a sense as radically different from that of the words "appaint" A bill to incorporate the Eminence Sav-and "appointment" as the present organic law is from the system which it superseded. No single instance can be found in which these words are employed to convey the same fees in Commonwealth to each other. By Art. 3, Sec. 25, it is provided, in substance, that the higher scool $49.] State officers, not especially provided for, County or District officers not especially But we forbear to refer to other illustrations. A bill increasing the compensation of an officer is referred to the Governor or other functionary it is called an oppointment, and whenever such selection is referred to the people or to an organized body (as the Legislature for instance), it is called an election. The Constitution affords no excention to this rule. And yet it is insisted Covington and Cincinnati Bridge Company. that the sixth section of article sixth should be interpreted as if it read: "Officers of towns and cities shall be elected by the Corner Frarth and Jefferson Sts. overnor (or Chancellor) for such terme and in such manner as may be prescribe. by law." Such a departure from the uniform use and meaning of terms would have been ladefensible as well as destruction of the symmetry and consistency of the

Should the We would call attention to a cale of own raising, nine months old, which weighed and personal friend of Floyd, to determine courts, even it the question were doubtful, but the people can exercise with respect to the most insignificant officer of a county or It 13 a sufficien' answer to theer questions to say that the Convention seem to have perceived no necessity for a discri-mination so anomalous and so directly opposed to the plan and spirit of the Oovern ment they designed to establish by the pre-sent Constitution, and they therefore omitted to embody in it any single provision authorizing the deduction that the inhabitants of towns and cities should be denied a privilege that was extended to all other pitizens of the Commonwealth, the privilege of electing their own officers, and that they should be subjected to a power trom which all other citizens were exempted, except in the few cases expressly provided for, the power of executive appointment.

In the case of the Trustess of Owensberg

ve. Webb, (2 Met. Ky. Rep. 676), it was decided that Sec 41 of Art. 4 related exclusively to such police courts (and officers of such courts, including juiges, clerks, and marshals) as has been established in any city or town prior to the adoption of the present Constitution, and that the 6th secofficers of towns and cities whose offices might be ereated or established after its ion. it would result from the view contended for by the appellante, that, although the judges, olerks, and marshals of lice courts which had been established i my eity ortown prior to the adoption of the onstitution, must be elected in the manne rescribed in Sec. 41 of Art. 4, yet the same inseas of officers of similar courts sines stablished in any city or town, may be counted by the Jovernor, or by a judicia cer to whom the Logislature might see fit o delegate the power of appointm We are next to inquire whether the act sufficiently, or at all, prescribes the terms for which the officers in question are to hold their offices.

We have already seen that by the provis one of this act, these officers may be removed at the pleasure of the Chancellor and that they must be removed whenever by a change of political opinion on their part, or on the part of the mayor, they coase o disagree. Such is the peculiar license by which these offices are to be held. Can i said that the incumbents hold their offices for a term, within the weil-understood and plain import of all the provisions of the Constitution, which prescribes the terms of the various officers therein mentioned, and which authorizes the Legislature to prescribe by law the terms of other officers? We think not. It is deemed unnecessary to refer specially to the numerous provisions alluded to for the purpose of demonstrating that the word term is uniformly used to designate a need and definite period of time, Trustees of Owensboro vs Webb supra and Burbeo ve Speed, MSS opinion June term, 1855.) Nor shall we stop to enlarge upon the objects and motives of the convention in edopting the policy which those previsions were intended to embedy and carry out. They could not be made more manifest by oomment. It is sufficient to say, upon this point, that we concur with the Circuit Judge in the ecnolusion that the act fails to comply with the requirements of the Constitution in providing for a tenure of office, unknows to that instrument, and opposed not only to ite letter, but to its spirit; and, in regard to the third ground of objection to the validity of the act, that it provides for a blending of executive and judicial powers-we have had more difficulty in concurring in the view taken by the Court below, and are not prepared to decide that the objection is maintainable. For a entisfactory exposition of the clause of the Constitution on which this objection is founded, we refer United States, by Judge Story; and especialty to the chapter on the "distribution of powers." (Sec. 517, etc).

A construction which would deny to the Legislature the right of clothing the Judi eral tribunale with certain minor functions that are in their nature strictly executive, would greatly embarrass, if it did not defeat to some extent the practical workings of our system. It is proper that another ground of objetion which was relied on by the appellece should be briefly notice t. It is insieted should be briefly noticet. that the constitutional term of the session of the Legislature had expired before the act in question was passed, and that for that reason the proceedings of that body were The argument in support of this positio proceeds, we think, upon a mistaken view of the effect of the provision of "the constitu ion, which declares that a session shall not ontinue beyond sixty days, unless by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected in such liouse. The General Assembly, which passed the set in question, did, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected, extend the session beyond the sixty days. The requirement the constitution was thus strictly and illy complied with The restriction imposed was effectually removed and it ould operate no longer.

After the removal of the restrictions by an extension of the session in the mode prescribed, the General Assembly were nenceforward competent, by a concurrence of a majority, to protract the session from time to time, as the necessities of the busi ness before them might seem to require. But for the reasons stated we are of opin on that the ect in question was properly held inoperative, and the judgment le there Hy R. R. BOLLING, D.C.

Mr. Hindman offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire whether Martin Fin ney, claiming to represent the State of Kansas, had been legally and constitutionally elected a Representative to Congress from that State, and that the said Committee report by bill or otherwise.

It was agreed to have a night session for debate, and the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Senate's amendments to the defliciency appropriation bill.

The Committee on Ways and Means recommended non-concurrence in the Senate's amendment to the appropriation bill, applying $300,000 to ratify the provisional contract with Hon. Ambrose W. Thompson, to secure to the United States certain valuable privileges in the province of Chiriqui. Mr. Morse offered a provise that the contract be not approved till the United States be secured in the supply of coal, &c. proposed by it and protected from failure, and that the United States shall acquire no right of sovereignty in New Greuada or Costa Rica, nor transport troops nor muni-tions of war over the territory unless volintarily assented to by the Government of those countries.
